Pastor's Note

Grace and Peace to you in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen!

We are still figuring out how to do church, aren't we? Much like everything else in life. As I write this, we are getting news that the vaccine is being released. Many people, including myself, are aiming to get one. I have been calling around to local pharmacies and hospitals, and while I am on a list at one local hospital, I have yet to get an appointment.

But while we wait for these things to happen, we are still very much a church in transition. I'm not just speaking for us here at St. Peter's, by the way: we in the Northeastern Pennsylvania Synod just elected a new bishop who began his tenure this month. Recently, our churchwide office released a statement about how they hope to look at church in a different way, both structurally and spiritually.

So in the meantime, while these things get worked out, I do want to lift up that we are livestreaming our services on Facebook. The good news? You do not have to have a Facebook account to watch. All you have to do is point your browser to <https://www.facebook.com/StPetersLutheranPineGrove> and scroll down at 9:00 on a Sunday morning until you see the live video. Sometimes, the video is automatically muted. If that is the case, you can click on the speaker with the X in front of it on the lower right hand corner of the screen, and that should make the audio turn on.

This is an uneasy time we find ourselves in, brothers and sisters. If you need to talk to me about this, I am always available by phone or email, and currently I am doing visitations as they are requested. I just want you to keep in mind some things:

- 1.) The church in the book of Acts had very different challenges than us, but they were huge in the sense that they had to set up what the Church of Christ would look like. They ended up just fine.
- 2.) Fear and anxiety are normal, as is frustration and anger. While we cannot control the emotions as they come to us, we can control what we do about them. I encourage you to seek out your Lord in prayer and do something actively, such as writing down your thoughts, crocheting or knitting, or going out to your garage and finding something to hammer on.
- 3.) Try your best to practice patience. In the grand scheme of things, we will, before you know it, be able to resume life as normal. We are in this odd "between time" that is not quite normal, but we are still able to worship currently and we are still able to do things like have Bible Study, Bible Journaling, and our new Book Discussion group. Take advantage of these things as they are available!

Peace to you along the Way,

All About LENT

Lent prepares your heart and mind for Easter.

Violet

Color each palm leaf as you count each day of Lent. Color Ash Wednesday, Palm Sunday and all other special days of Lent violet.

This color reminds us that Lent is a somber season and we are to remember Jesus's passion. Draw a picture of your favorite thing that is purple.

Praying Hands

Jesus prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane. We, too, must remember to pray during Lent. I will pray for ...

Fish

This Lenten sign tells us that we must remember to fast. Draw a fish.

Heart

Lent is a special time for us to prepare for Jesus by fasting and giving our life more fully to God for 40 days and nights. It is a "spring cleaning" of our lives spiritually.

40 Days

Butterfly

An important symbol showing the whole life cycle of Jesus. Draw a picture of a butterfly.

Gratitude and joy

Faith & family: Growing together

by Kimberly Knowle-Zeller

www.livinglutheran.org

Focal verse

Praise the Lord!
O give thanks to the Lord, for he is good;
for his steadfast love endures forever.
—Psalm 106:1

Reflection

I heard the stomping of feet across the wooden floors, then my kids shouting, “Superheroes!”

I stood at the sink, dish scrubber in hand, while they ran in circles with their capes flying behind them.

“Want to watch us, Mommy? We’re superheroes! We have to go help some people,” my eldest said.

As quickly as they had entered the kitchen with outstretched arms, clenched fists and unbridled laughter, they left. I remained staring at a pile of dishes and the sunlight streaming through the window.

I smiled. Little did they know they were helping me see joy right in front of me.

Children make it easy for us to delight in small things. It’s what they do naturally. But how do we teach them about gratitude? I want to see them move from joy to recognizing the source of their joy. I want them to see God as the author of all that is good.

I want them to see a sunset and say, “Wow, God, that’s beautiful. Thank you for your creation.”

I hope they feel the love of family and friends and say, “Thank you, God, for a rich and varied community that loves me for who I am.”

I hope they read God’s word and say, “Thank you, God, for your story that fills me with hope.”

The best way to teach gratitude to our children is to model it and offer our own gratitude first. The more we share our gratitude out loud and name that for which we are thankful, the more our children will too.

A prayer for you: Thank you, God, for my children—for their joy and curiosity, their life and love. Thank you for your gifts of grace and mercy that are new every day. Amen.

Practices

With younger children, be silly and make up a song together. Walk around your home or neighborhood singing, “Thank you, God!” and go back and forth naming what you’re thankful for.

Where do you spend the most time as a family? Fill that area with slips of paper naming things for which you give thanks: family and friends, your favorite foods, your home and community, etc. Add to this list throughout the month.

Together as a family, read Thanksgiving in the Woods (Beaming Books, 2019) and talk about how your family can include others at your table, both virtually and in person with safety restrictions.

Prayers

We pray for our country: for peace, justice and compassionate leaders.

We pray for the work of ELCA World Hunger in alleviating hunger and advocating to change systems that perpetuate food insecurity.

We pray for families who are separated from one another during the holidays.

We give thanks for technology that connects people around the world.

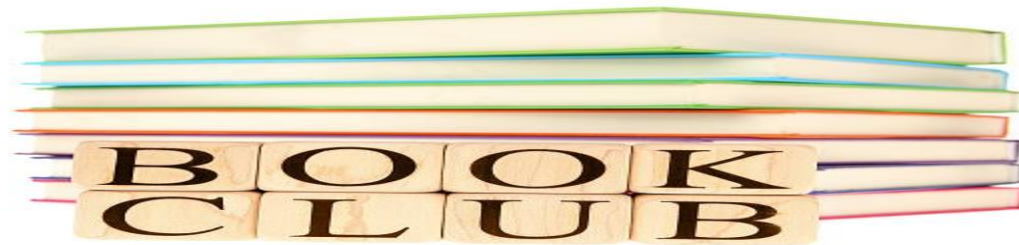

We give thanks for laughter among friends and the smiles of children.

We give thanks for local businesses.

Lord, in your mercy, hear our prayers.

Service opportunity

Thanksgiving is a great time to invite others to share a meal together, but perhaps this month is the time to commit to sharing your food more consistently. Talk as a family and pick a date to make your favorite meal, a dessert or a loaf of bread. Every month, share that food with someone or donate food to your local food pantry.

February's book is On Pills and Needles by Rich Van Warner. When Rick Van Warner found himself searching abandoned buildings and dangerous streets looking for his missing son, he had no idea that the synthetic, pill-form heroin that had snared his teen was already killing so many. In the years of pain and heartache that followed as he tried to save his son from opioid addiction, Van Warner discovered what the American public is just now becoming aware of. We will gather to discuss this book on Tuesday March 2nd at 7:00 pm. We will hold the gathering via Zoom, with hopefully an in-person gathering assuming conditions are safe.
